WHITE HOUSE LAWN MENACED BY WEEDS

Troublesome Growths on Government Turfs.

Plowing May be Necessary to Erad icate the Pests.

The President's Gardener Greatly Perturbed by the Invasion-Campatgn Being Planned.

The Government lawns in Washington are threatened with destruction. The lawns of the White House, the Capitol, and the Agricultural Department have been invaded by those three great fors of fine turf, dandelions, plantains, and that species of paspalum which is so troub eome from Pennsylvania southward. Foxtail, crab grass, and goose grass have also put in appearance, and it is quite likely that the lawns mentioned will have to be given over to the plow. Another turf pest which is very much in evidence in the White House grounds is chickweed, and Bermuda grass is doing its utmost to root out the different varieties of blue grass, escue grass, Rhode Island bent grass and talian rye-grass, which for years have scautified the Government grounds at Vashington.

F. Lamson-Scribner, agrostologist of the Agricultural Department, has given it as his opinion that annual weeds like fox-tail and crab grass may be removed realily, but perennials, such as dandelions and plantains, are more difficult of cradication, and where weeds of this character have and where weeds of this character have been allowed to become abundant the simplest remedy, generally speaking, is to plow the land and start afresh.

The re-establishment of those lawns that were once so fine cannot be brought about quickly. A perfect lawn cannot be made in a season, and the highest excellence sought comes only through intelligent care for a period of years. A green surface may be secured within a few months, under fayorable conditions, but a soft, vel-may be secured within a few months, under favorable conditions, but a soft, velvety turf, which is both pleasing to the eye and solid under the foot, comes only with years of patient care.

The principal cause of the deterioration of the Government glass plots has been under-fertilization. The soil has been washed out in the course of years, and the weeds, taking advantage of the encouragement, have practically overpowered the grass, which, by its nature, demands a soil richer in vegetable foods than is required for the growth of weeds. Weeds will thrive for the growth of weeds. Weeds will thrive for the growth of weeds. Weeds will thrive on land where grass will starve. Henry Pfister, head gardener of the White House, has expressed himself as greatly perturbed over the situation, and the gardeners at the Agricultural Department are in despair. They have not as yet abandoned their efforts to save the lawns, but it is their belief that the plow will have to be put into the grounds this fall. It is laid down in the text-books of the Department of Agriculture that, if the land is very weedy and it is desired to make is very weedy and it is desired to make is very weedy and it is desired to make a lawn, cern, or potatoes should be cultivated on the ground for one season as the most effective means of reducing the weedy growth. It is unlikely, however, that the spectacle of a crop of corn and potatoes growing in front of the White House will be presented. It is probable that the sod will be top-dressed in the fall with well rotted stable or barnyard manure and the sod then turned in by plowing. The decomsod then turned in by plowing. The decom-position of this sod will add to the soil that position of this sod will add to the soli that most valuable fertillzing element, humus. In the following spring, a top dressing of old, well-composted manure may be ap-plied at about the rate of ten cords an acre and the land will then be crossedplowed. The surface will then be made as fine as possible by repeated harrowings and thorough rolling before the seed is sown. When the grass begins to flourish there will be dressings in the fall with a fine compost and in the apring there will be added to this a dressing of bone meal and hard-wood ashes. It is said that the question of the variety of the seed to be sown has already been considered. Only those grasses with creeping root-stocks, or with a creeping habit of growth form a continuous turf, hence it is one of these varieties which will be chosen for the public lawns in the District. It is said that Kentucky blue grass will be planted. This grass forms a sod of the seed to be sown has already been will be planted. This grass forms a sod by its creeping rhizomes, which are all under ground. These send up at fre-quent intervals leafy shoots, which form the turf of the lawn. Under the usual conditions, these leafy shoots are not nu-merous enough to make the soft, springy turf desired, hence it is probable that some of the finer varieties of fescues or bent grasses may be blended with the blue grass.

It is emphasized by agrostologists that the best lawns, those presenting the best turf and the greatest uniformity in color and texture, consist of pure cultures of single varieties, but the most beautiful green is said to be that of blue grass and the solidity and springiness of the turf must be produced by another variety.

It may be that a flock of sheep will be a single purely that the produced by another variety.

introduced into the Agricultural grounds to perform the service of lawn mowers. It is alleged that there cannot be found a better turf, of finer or more even texture, or more pleasant to walk on, than in some pastures near the New England which have been grazed by sheep for the last hundred years.

The value of sheep in turf formation has been recognized by the managers of public parks. This is notably the case in Cen-tral Park, New York, and Druid Hill Park.

THE GEORGIA EXPRESS CASE. Revival of an Old Suit Involving War Tax on Receipts.

New Orleans, May 9.—The celebrated
Georgia Express case involving the war tax on express receipts comes up here today before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The appeal is from the decision of Judge Speer, who granted the Express Company an injunction against the Georgia railroad commissioner prohibiting the commissioner from enforcing it against the Southern Express Company.

The commissioner can, under the State law, fix and regulate charges in Georgia. When the express company charged the war internal revenue stamp against con-signors the commissioner took the view that this was an increase of rates, which cannot be done save with the comm er's consent under the penalty of a fine of from $1,000 to $5,000 in each case. The New York stockholders secured an injunction from Judge Speer and the case now comes up on appeal. Attorney Gen-eral J. M. Terrell, of Georgia, will repre-sent the railroad commissioner before the

PORTO RICO'S GOLD AND OTHER METALS

Insular Board's Report to Treat of Mineral Wealth.

American Capital Soon to Develop Rich Iron Deposits.

Thirty-five Million Tons of Magnetic Ore in Sight-Fuels, and Lagoous That Produce Salt.

The Insular Commission, in the report which it is engaged in preparing for presentation to the President, will treat especially of the mineral resources of Porto Rico. The Commission has been impressed with the mineral wealth of America's West Indian possession. The metallic minerals most frequently found are gold, caronate and sulphide of copper, and magnetic oxide of iron. Traces of lead and indications of mercury, manganese, and bismuth have also been observed.

Almost since the date of the disc of the island it is said that gold has been washed in small quantities from many of its rivers, especially those of the north and east end, notably the Luquillo and Loiza Gold also occurs in the streams near Cor ozal, a village on the north central side of the island. It is said that it has never been found in great quantities, 50 cents to $1 representing the average product of a hard day's labor. The gold is obtained by the natives from the river sand and gravel. The mother rock of this metal has never been determined. Lately a great many American prospectors have been search ing for quartz veins toward the heads of the streams.

Robert T. Hill, of the Geological Survey, after an examination of the gold-bearing after an examination of the gold-bearing territory, has given the opinion, however, that no true quartz veins will be found, that no true quartz veins will be found, though he suspects the presence of some small stringer veins. It is considered probable that the vein material of the gold in the mother rocks is pyrite. Experience has shown that the placer deposits are not rich. American prospectors find that the matrix is entirely different from that with which they are familiar, the general geological conditions resembling those of Colombia and Panama, more than those of the North American gold fields.

Porto Rico is rich in iron. Nine-tenths of the rocks of the island are of a basic nature and contain a large proportion of iron. It is said that inasmuch as these

It is said that the conditions of this deposit could not be more favorable. The ore is encountered in compact masses, easy of extraction and is covered only by a light layer of earth. It constitutes a small hill, at the opening of a plain which leads to a port by a 2 per cent grade. The shipping port, Naguabo, is said to admit ships of twenty fact draft. Copper pyrite and the stains of carbon copper pyrite and ring stains of carbon-ate of copper are frequently met with in the central mountain region. Gypsum oc-curs rather abundantly, it is said, in a for-mation consisting of yellow marl, which is extensively developed along the south-ern side of the Central Mountains, just north of the village of Juana Diaz. It has also been recovered in other lecalities and north of the village of Juana Diaz. It has also been reported in other localities, no-tably near Ponce. It is said that the de-posits are of an impure character, being largely mixed with sand and clay, but are of sufficient value for the manufacture of a low grade of plaster, such as is exten-sively used in the country for stucco and for fertilizers. Rochester, N. Y., May 9.-A fight between a rabid rabbit and a woman oc curred at South Byron yesterday. Mrs. Roy Fuller is so badly bitten that her con-Roy Fuller is so badly bitten that her condition is regarded as serious. The woman was standing in her yard when a rabbit, one of several which the children of the family had as pets, ran toward her. She kicked it away and it again rushed at her. She struck the animal with a stick. Nelghbors came to the reacue and killed the rabbit, but the woman's wrists and hands had been severely bitten. It is believed that the rabbit was bitten about a fortnight ago by a dog in the village, which had attacked a little child. The dog was afterward killed.
